

'DRUG BUST' ABOARD CRUISE SHIP

Aryan Khan produced in court, no contraband was found on him: lawyer

SADAF MODAK
MUMBAI, OCTOBER 3

ARYAN KHAN, the 23-year-old son of actor Shah Rukh Khan was a special invitee on the cruise ship Cordelia and had been screened twice, and no contraband had been found on him nor any evidence of consumption, his lawyers told the court where he was produced late on Sunday evening.

The Narcotics Control Bureau (NCB), which has invoked bailable charges against Aryan and two others, said that there was material in the form of WhatsApp chats against the three, allegedly showing nexus with peddlers and suppliers on regular basis.

After being detained from the ship in the early hours of Sunday, Aryan, Arbaaz Merchant (26) and Munmun Dhamecha (39) were produced before the additional metropolitan magistrate's court around 7 pm. The NCB was granted one-day custody until October 4.

Piecing together the events on the cruise ship before the court, Aryan's lawyer Satish Maneshinde said Aryan was invited by the organisers of the party as a special invitee.

"He did not have a ticket or a boarding pass, no allotted seat number or cabin. He reached the dock to board and the authorities screened him. His luggage along with that of his friends was also screened and nothing was found," Maneshinde said.

He said that a further search by NCB officials was conducted and then also nothing was found. He added that Aryan's phone was then examined and he was detained for questioning based on chats, both deleted and present.

"Prima facie investigation indicates that there is material in form of WhatsApp chats showing the nexus of these respondents (Aryan, Merchant and Dhamecha) with peddlers and suppliers on regular basis," special public prosecutor Advait Sethna told the court.

He added that the chats were recovered on Day 1. The NCB submitted a case diary, including chats to the court for its perusal.

Unease when we heard SRK son was caught: a passenger's account

EXPRESSNEWSERVICE
MUMBAI, OCTOBER 3

IT WAS meant to be a two-day cruise and we were expecting to be back in Mumbai on Monday. The idea was to enjoy the pool party and music concerts that the cruise ship had lined up.

As per the itinerary, the ship was to sail around 4 pm on Saturday. Most of the passengers had checked in by 2 pm.

We were told that the concert would begin as soon as the ship left the harbour at 4, but all of us were a bit perplexed when the ship did not leave the port on time or even hours after.

We were getting restless, and around 8 pm one of the ship crew came up and told some passengers that the NCB had conducted a raid and two people had been detained as drugs had been recovered from them. By around 9 pm there was a buzz on the ship that the son of a well-known superstar had been caught with drugs. We still did not have an inkling as to who it was. We tried to search online for news reports and came to know that some people had been arrested from our ship.

But during the entire time there was also a semblance of normalcy, as if nothing had happened on the ship. The restaurants and food counters on the ship were open. People were dining, and there was music playing.

Only when people got to know that Aryan Khan was arrested was there a bit of panic among guests. Many said they wanted to disembark as they did not want to get caught in an unnecessary controversy.

Ship officials, however, assured people that there would be no problem and the ship would sail soon. When people insisted that they wanted to leave, they were told they could do so but would not be entitled to a refund as the cruise was not responsible for the conduct of the passengers who were arrested.

Following this, many of the people decided to stay back.

The ship finally sailed around 5 am on Sunday morning. The delay happened because there were many people who had not checked in and the ship left only when they boarded.

3 corporators for every prabhag in '22 civic elections

Decision applicable across state barring Mumbai where 'one ward, one corporator' system will continue

PUNE, OCTOBER 3

AHEAD OF the civic elections in the state next year, Governor Bhagat Singh Koshyari on Sunday issued an ordinance amending the Maharashtra Municipal Corporation Act as part of which each prabhag or panel will elect three corporators. The decision will be applicable to all civic bodies in Maharashtra barring Mumbai where "one ward, one corporator" system will continue to be implemented.

Following the ordinance, the Maharashtra government will notify the State Election Commission (SEC) to start the poll process for the three-corporator-per-prabhag system.

Issuing the ordinance, the Governor said, "In view of the Covid crisis in municipal corporation areas, it has been agreed upon that a multi-member ward will help in controlling the situation. Therefore, after reviewing the situation, and to streamline functioning of the civic bodies, the government has carried out the amendment to the Act. Each panel will elect three members and not less than two or more than four. Since the state legislature is not in force as of now, the ordinance is being issued for the three-member panel system."

Balasaheb Khandekar, who heads the election department of the Pimpri-Chinchwad Municipal Corporation (PCMC), said the SEC will ask the civic bodies to demarcate the boundaries based on the 2011 population census. "Besides, it will decide upon the reservation in the panels and updation of the voters list after which the civic bodies will get into the act," he added.

Khandekar said in PCMC, only one panel will elect two corporators while the rest 42 will elect three corporators. "However, the number of corporators at 128 will remain the same," he said.

Corporator Asha Shendge said, "I was elected last year when four corporators were elected from one panel. In 2017, PCMC had 32 prabhags. In 2002, the three-corporator panel system was in place, which will now return for 2022 elections."

The government decision has come despite the state Congress vehemently opposing the system. Maharashtra Pradesh Congress Committee (MPCC) chief Nana Patole said the Congress will continue to "democratically oppose" the three-member panel system. The Nationalist Congress Party (NCP), which too had opposed the system, has now decided to accept the government decision. Shiv Sena's support to the system is evident with Chief Minister Uddhav Thackeray, who is also the Sena chief, giving his final approval to it.

Bharatiya Janata Party (BJP) MLA Laxman Jagtap said, "Whether one member is elected or three, it won't make any difference to the BJP. We will have more number of corporators than (we did in) the 2017 elections."

In 2017, the BJP had grabbed power in PCMC by unseating the NCP. It was the maiden victory for the BJP since the first PCMC elections in 1986. Following all subsequent elections till 2017, either the Congress or the NCP had ruled the civic body.

Sena Parliamentarian Shrirang Barne said, "The actual position or equation will become clear only after reservations for women, OBCs, SCs and STs are announced."

Barne said the Sena will do much better than the last elections. As for alliance with the NCP, Barne said the party leadership will take final call in this regard.

The Aam Aadmi Party (AAP), which will be contesting the Pune Municipal Corporation (PMC) and PCMC polls for the first time, has strongly opposed the three-corporator panel system. "In multi-member ward, it becomes difficult to fix responsibility. For smaller parties especially, the system is disastrous. We are in favour of 'one ward, one corporator' which is as per the constitutional provision," said Mukund Kirdat, Pune president for AAP.

Former mayor Yogesh Behl, also a PCMC corporator, said, "The three-member panel will now change the boundaries. It is in the interest of both the voters and the candidates."

Welcoming the government decision, the NCP's Pimpri-Chinchwad chief Sanjay Waghere said, "Because of the corruption during the BJP rule, the NCP will stage a comeback in the 2022 elections."
